

J. A. BEASLEY

Beasley Makes Strong Bid for Seat on Council

J. A. "Jay" Beasley, member of the city planning commission, is a candidate for election to the Torrance city council on April 8.

The Walteria resident said he feels south Torrance needs more direct representation since citizens last fall voted to increase council membership from five to six plus a mayor.

Beasley, whose efforts helped to give Walteria one of the finest parks in the South Bay area, will run on a platform of more adequate park-recreation facilities for all sections of Torrance.

Long active in city affairs, he was one of the original members of the recreation commission, remaining four years. He served three years on the planning commission before appointment recently to a four-year term, and was on the committee to help greater Torrance celebrate its selection as an All-America City.

Beasley aided Jim Whitmer in organizing the Walteria Business Men's Club nine years ago and was its first and fourth president; is a charter member and former executive board member of the Walteria Kiwanis Club; and belongs to the Walteria Merchants Division of the Torrance Chamber of Commerce.

He helped to found the Walteria Community Methodist Church and was its first lay leader, serving four years, and currently is in his second year as president of the Methodist Men's Club. He also started and was chairman for eight years of the Walteria Community Easter Services.

Beasley, at 56, is an avid rock hound in his spare time and has just started his second term as president of the Los Angeles Mineralogical Society, a group of 365 professional men, scientists, and lay persons from throughout Southern California.

Born in Little Rock, Ark., he moved to California in 1945 after 25 years' residence in Denver, Colo., where he also was prominent in local and state civic activities. Owner of a feed and garden supply business in Walteria until 1950, Beasley since has been employed by Felker Manufacturing Co. of Torrance as foreman of the electroplating department. The firm makes diamond saws and drills.

Beasley's wife, Fannie, has been a kindergarten teacher in the Torrance Unified School District since 1946. They have three children, James, 19, a sophomore geology major at El Camino; Priscilla Ann, 16, a junior at North Torrance High; and Carol Jean, 11, a fifth grader at Walteria Elementary School. The family resides at 24240 Ocean Ave., Walteria.

To Keynote NHS 'Science Fair'

Lee A. Ohlinger, chief of the computation and datamation center at Northrop Aircraft's Northrop Division, will be keynote speaker at the Science Fair to be held today at Narbonne High School.

A recognized authority in the fields of atomic energy and automation, Ohlinger will address Science Fair visitors on "Science—Challenge or Mirage?"

Designed as a timely discussion for students and adults, the talk will relate the dynamic future facing scientists in translating imaginative dreams into useful reality.

A pioneer in the field of atomic energy, Ohlinger was responsible for the basic engineering designs for the reactors at Hanford, Wash., where plutonium for atomic bombs is produced.

He has served as consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission and to the Argonne National Laboratory of the Monsanto Atomic-Electric Project at Oak Ridge.

Disneyland's Grand Canyon To Open Soon

The "Grand Canyon" will officially be unveiled at Disneyland on March 31.

With a background provided by the longest painting in the world, Disneyland's Grand Canyon will give viewers the sensation of actually looking down into the famed Grand Canyon.

Approximately eight years ago he entered the new field of computing and automation, and is currently in charge of the computing and data reduction at Northrop where several advanced electronic "brains" are in use.

Canyon of the Colorado River. A 308-foot-long by 34-foot-high Diorama, the new Grand Canyon will be seen from the Santa Fe & Disneyland Railroad trains which travel around the Anaheim wonderland.

From their seats in the trains, passengers will see in the foreground many of the animals, trees and typical rock formations which are found on the high rims overlooking Arizona's Grand Canyon. In the background is the canyon itself, painted so that the total appearance of the Diorama is three-dimensional.
